

PC

Passenger Cars

Flex tube is a decoupling element usually placed in front portion of exhaust system and it absorbs/insulates vibrations from engine and various road conditions in order to provide passengers with comfort and improve exhaust system durability

